The temple of Jerusalem was defiled by the erection of altars to the Greek gods. Such intiges hatred was engendered that the Jews of Palestine revolted and made war on the Syrian despot. The final victory of the Maccaban armies over the hosts of Syria came on the 25th of Kisley, according to the Hebrew calendar, corresponding to December in the year 165. On that day the images and idols were removed from the temple of Jerusalem and the siltar rededicated to the worship of the God of Israel.

Holiday Retail Trade.

The last week saw the beginning of the large Christmas shopping crowds, and it was of great benefit to large department stores, but so far the small retailer has not caught the overflow and it aconsequently somewhat dissatisfied. This week, however, is expected to see him placed in a more favorable position, as the last minute rush will be likely to cause an overflow of buying from the department stores to the small retail stores. Reports as to the amount of holliday trade to date, compared with that of last year, indicate that so far the retail trade in money value is not equal to that of 1920, sithough its volume is probably greater.
